Gubernatorial Reports of Russian Imperial Governors 1855-1864. IDC ($12,113)

From their inception in 1804 until their cessation during the revolution of 1917, these reports of the provincial governors of the Russian Empire documented economic changes, political events, and popular disturbances as well as the actions of provincial administration. They preserve an unparalleled first-hand contemporary account of life and politics in Tsarist Russia.

Lyttelton Times. Christchurch, New Zealand. Bludeau Parners International LLC ($6,000)

As one of the oldest newspapers of the Canterbury region, The Lyttelton Times (LT) provides a window into the lives of the people and events that shaped the region. It published from 1851 until 1929, when it became the Christchurch Times until publication ceased in 1935.

Sources on Social Welfare. Freie Wohlfahrtspflege. Harald Fischer Verlag (9,990 euros or $13,725 USD depending on the exchange rate)

During the Weimar Republic, the influence of the nonstatutory and in particular, religious welfare agencies, was so great that the lawmakers had to consider them when drafting new state welfare laws. This series includes edited journals from the Protestant Inner Mission, the Catholic Charity Society, the Jewish, and the nonconfessional independent welfare work reflects this key position. The first five titles come from the holdings of the Library of the Social Service Agencies of the Protestant Church in Berlin; the holdings of additional libraries will be taken into account in the future. The series contains central and, up to now, too little regarded sources of German social history from before the 1848 Revolution up to the Second World War.

Xin Wen Bao. National Library of China (263,000 RMB or $38,649 USD depending on exchange rate)
